

Prevent Training

Prevent General Awareness (e-Learning)

Local Authorities, health services and the police all have a key role to play to ensure a multi-agency safeguarding approach is taken. Providing information and raising awareness about Prevent through training and partnership working is key to delivering the PREVENT programme successfully in Wokingham.

This is a newly updated Home Office e-learning module which is mandatory for all WBC staff and suitable for our partners. This course has been designed to equip you with inclusive, unbiased and reliable information giving you the knowledge and confidence to support and safeguard the public against radicalisation.

Prevent Referrals (e-Learning)

The Prevent Referrals course is one of a number of courses provided by the Home Office. You must complete the introductory Prevent Awareness course before starting this course (Prevent General Awareness e-learning).

Target Audience: This course is primarily designed for Designated Safeguarding Leads (DSL), Prevent professionals or equivalent roles who be required to make Prevent referrals. If that responsibility is a part of your job role, regardless of your job title, then this course should be completed.

In addition, this course is for anyone who may need to make a Prevent referral and those who might spot a concern and share it with their DSL or an equivalent so that they can make a referral to the police.

This course builds on the awareness course and will explain how to make a Prevent referral that is both informed and with good intention.
